Dear Madam:

I have shown the little vest-pocket edition to one or two collectors and I have an offer of $3.50 for it, which I consider very fair.

If you wish to accept this, kindly let me know.

Yours very truly,

Curator

Dear Sir:

I have your letter of November eighteenth with its accompanying offer of $3.50 for my little coin table. I do not care to sell it at that price. It has been in the family so long I won't let it go now.

Thanking you for your kind interest in, and efforts to sell it.

Very truly yours,

Catherine H. Hatch.

I am enclosing postage for its return.

Dear Madam:

• As we have made you an offer for your little book, kindly let us know how much you wish for it. We took some little trouble in showing it to several persons, and we would like to help the person who made the offer to get this little book; therefore, we wish you would tell us how much you would like for it.

Yours very truly,

Curator
